

JULY 16, 2026

Cristy Hernandez

RN, Infection Prevention
cristy.hernandez@pihhealth.org

Dear Cristy,

My name is Aleksandra Dubina, founder and CEO of Eternal Life Hospice — a Medicare-certified, ACHC-accredited hospice serving Ventura and Los Angeles County. With nearly two decades in healthcare and over eleven years in hospice, our team has been intentional about every relationship we pursue, and I wanted to reach out to you personally.

A few days ago we sent out the first issue of The Eternal Care Brief — a publication our team created to put honest, clinical information directly into the hands of professionals like you. I hope it found its way to you.

We reached out to PIH Health specifically because reputation and standards matter to us. The hospice industry in California has faced a real credibility crisis — fraud investigations and Medicare suspensions have shaken families' trust across the board. Our team made a deliberate decision to take action: to provide credible, clear information to providers who support families, and to educate families so they know they have a choice to examine the industry for themselves when facing one of the most difficult decisions a person can face.

Your work in infection prevention resonates with our own practice — the protocols that protect patients inside a hospital don't stop at discharge — and we'd like to extend a personal invitation to be a voice in The Eternal Care Brief. We envision credible voices from the field, clinicians willing to share a perspective or a challenge worth talking about. If that ever appeals to you, we'd be honored.

Please feel free to reach out to me directly. And lastly, thank you for your work in infection prevention — the discipline it demands and the quiet way it protects every patient in your care is a contribution that deserves to be acknowledged.

I welcome your call or text, and I look forward to the possibility of meeting or simply having a conversation to see how Eternal can support your efforts at PIH.

Warm regards,

Aleksandra Dubina

Founder & Chief Executive Officer
Certified Hospice Administrator
Office 805.953.7273 · Cell 818.644.5357
aleksandra@eternallifehospice.com

JULY 16, 2026

Melissa Perez

Quality Reporting System Administrator
melissa.perez@pihhealth.org

Dear Melissa,

My name is Aleksandra Dubina, founder and CEO of Eternal Life Hospice — a Medicare-certified, ACHC-accredited hospice serving Ventura and Los Angeles County. With nearly two decades in healthcare and over eleven years in hospice, our team has been intentional about every relationship we pursue, and I wanted to reach out to you personally.

A few days ago we sent out the first issue of The Eternal Care Brief — a publication our team created to put honest, clinical information directly into the hands of professionals like you. I hope it found its way to you.

We reached out to PIH Health specifically because reputation and standards matter to us. The hospice industry in California has faced a real credibility crisis — fraud investigations and Medicare suspensions have shaken families' trust across the board. Our team made a deliberate decision to take action: to provide credible, clear information to providers who support families, and to educate families so they know they have a choice to examine the industry for themselves when facing one of the most difficult decisions a person can face.

Your work in quality reporting resonates with our own practice — data is what separates credible care from care that merely claims to be, and in hospice that accountability is what families deserve but rarely know to ask for — and we'd like to extend a personal invitation to be a voice in The Eternal Care Brief. We envision credible voices from the field, administrators willing to share a perspective or a challenge worth talking about. If that ever appeals to you, we'd be honored.

Please feel free to reach out to me directly. And lastly, thank you for your work in quality reporting — the rigor it demands and the accountability it creates for every patient in the system is a contribution that deserves to be acknowledged.

I welcome your call or text, and I look forward to the possibility of meeting or simply having a conversation to see how Eternal can support your efforts at PIH.

Warm regards,

Aleksandra Dubina

Founder & Chief Executive Officer
Certified Hospice Administrator
Office 805.953.7273 · Cell 818.644.5357
aleksandra@eternallifehospice.com

JULY 16, 2026

Brent Melton

VP, Support Services
brent.melton@pihhealth.org

Dear Brent,

My name is Aleksandra Dubina, founder and CEO of Eternal Life Hospice — a Medicare-certified, ACHC-accredited hospice serving Ventura and Los Angeles County. With nearly two decades in healthcare and over eleven years in hospice, our team has been intentional about every relationship we pursue, and I wanted to reach out to you personally.

A few days ago we sent out the first issue of The Eternal Care Brief — a publication our team created to put honest, clinical information directly into the hands of professionals like you. I hope it found its way to you.

We reached out to PIH Health specifically because reputation and standards matter to us. The hospice industry in California has faced a real credibility crisis — fraud investigations and Medicare suspensions have shaken families' trust across the board. Our team made a deliberate decision to take action: to provide credible, clear information to providers who support families, and to educate families so they know they have a choice to examine the industry for themselves when facing one of the most difficult decisions a person can face.

Your work in support services resonates with our own practice — the operational foundation that holds patient care together is often invisible until it isn't, and families feel that difference most at their most vulnerable moments — and we'd like to extend a personal invitation to be a voice in The Eternal Care Brief. We envision credible voices from the field, leaders willing to share a perspective or a challenge worth talking about. If that ever appeals to you, we'd be honored.

Please feel free to reach out to me directly. And lastly, thank you for your work in support services — the infrastructure you sustain makes every act of care possible, and that is a contribution that deserves to be acknowledged.

I welcome your call or text, and I look forward to the possibility of meeting or simply having a conversation to see how Eternal can support your efforts at PIH.

Warm regards,

Aleksandra Dubina

Founder & Chief Executive Officer
Certified Hospice Administrator
Office 805.953.7273 · Cell 818.644.5357
aleksandra@eternallifehospice.com

JULY 16, 2026

Jeanette Wehrberg

Clinical Education, HR

jeanette.wehrberg@pihhealth.org

Dear Jeanette,

My name is Aleksandra Dubina, founder and CEO of Eternal Life Hospice — a Medicare-certified, ACHC-accredited hospice serving Ventura and Los Angeles County. With nearly two decades in healthcare and over eleven years in hospice, our team has been intentional about every relationship we pursue, and I wanted to reach out to you personally.

A few days ago we sent out the first issue of The Eternal Care Brief — a publication our team created to put honest, clinical information directly into the hands of professionals like you. I hope it found its way to you.

We reached out to PIH Health specifically because reputation and standards matter to us. The hospice industry in California has faced a real credibility crisis — fraud investigations and Medicare suspensions have shaken families' trust across the board. Our team made a deliberate decision to take action: to provide credible, clear information to providers who support families, and to educate families so they know they have a choice to examine the industry for themselves when facing one of the most difficult decisions a person can face.

Your work in clinical education resonates with our own practice — the conversations you prepare clinicians to have are among the most consequential of a patient's life, and few are harder than the hospice conversation — and we'd like to extend a personal invitation to be a voice in The Eternal Care Brief. We envision credible voices from the field, educators willing to share a perspective or a challenge worth talking about. If that ever appeals to you, we'd be honored.

Please feel free to reach out to me directly. And lastly, thank you for your work in clinical education — the care it takes to prepare others for the hardest moments in medicine ripples further than you may know, and that is a contribution that deserves to be acknowledged.

I welcome your call or text, and I look forward to the possibility of meeting or simply having a conversation to see how Eternal can support your efforts at PIH.

Warm regards,

Aleksandra Dubina

Founder & Chief Executive Officer

Certified Hospice Administrator

Office 805.953.7273 · Cell 818.644.5357

aleksandra@eternallifehospice.com

JULY 16, 2026

Noel Coppinger

VP, Revenue Cycle & Managed Care
noel.coppinger@pihhealth.org

Dear Noel,

My name is Aleksandra Dubina, founder and CEO of Eternal Life Hospice — a Medicare-certified, ACHC-accredited hospice serving Ventura and Los Angeles County. With nearly two decades in healthcare and over eleven years in hospice, our team has been intentional about every relationship we pursue, and I wanted to reach out to you personally.

A few days ago we sent out the first issue of The Eternal Care Brief — a publication our team created to put honest, clinical information directly into the hands of professionals like you. I hope it found its way to you.

We reached out to PIH Health specifically because reputation and standards matter to us. The hospice industry in California has faced a real credibility crisis — fraud investigations and Medicare suspensions have shaken families' trust across the board. Our team made a deliberate decision to take action: to provide credible, clear information to providers who support families, and to educate families so they know they have a choice to examine the industry for themselves when facing one of the most difficult decisions a person can face.

Your work in revenue cycle and managed care resonates with our own practice — when the benefit is clearly understood at the point of discharge, the entire experience of care shifts for the family — and we'd like to extend a personal invitation to be a voice in The Eternal Care Brief. We envision credible voices from the field, leaders willing to share a perspective or a challenge worth talking about. If that ever appeals to you, we'd be honored.

Please feel free to reach out to me directly. And lastly, thank you for your work in managed care — the discipline of making complex systems navigable for patients and families is a form of care in itself, and that deserves to be acknowledged.

I welcome your call or text, and I look forward to the possibility of meeting or simply having a conversation to see how Eternal can support your efforts at PIH.

Warm regards,

Aleksandra Dubina

Founder & Chief Executive Officer
Certified Hospice Administrator
Office 805.953.7273 · Cell 818.644.5357
aleksandra@eternallifehospice.com

JULY 16, 2026

Scott Bremer

Director, Compensation, Benefits & HRIS
scott.bremer@pihhealth.org

Dear Scott,

My name is Aleksandra Dubina, founder and CEO of Eternal Life Hospice — a Medicare-certified, ACHC-accredited hospice serving Ventura and Los Angeles County. With nearly two decades in healthcare and over eleven years in hospice, our team has been intentional about every relationship we pursue, and I wanted to reach out to you personally.

A few days ago we sent out the first issue of The Eternal Care Brief — a publication our team created to put honest, clinical information directly into the hands of professionals like you. I hope it found its way to you.

We reached out to PIH Health specifically because reputation and standards matter to us. The hospice industry in California has faced a real credibility crisis — fraud investigations and Medicare suspensions have shaken families' trust across the board. Our team made a deliberate decision to take action: to provide credible, clear information to providers who support families, and to educate families so they know they have a choice to examine the industry for themselves when facing one of the most difficult decisions a person can face.

Your work in benefits resonates with our own practice — when an employee faces a hospice decision for someone they love, they often turn to HR first, and the quality of what they find there shapes one of the most difficult moments of their life — and we'd like to extend a personal invitation to be a voice in The Eternal Care Brief. We envision credible voices from the field, leaders willing to share a perspective or a challenge worth talking about. If that ever appeals to you, we'd be honored.

Please feel free to reach out to me directly. And lastly, thank you for your work in benefits — the support you extend to employees at their most vulnerable moments is a profound contribution that deserves to be acknowledged.

I welcome your call or text, and I look forward to the possibility of meeting or simply having a conversation to see how Eternal can support your efforts at PIH.

Warm regards,

Aleksandra Dubina

Founder & Chief Executive Officer
Certified Hospice Administrator
Office 805.953.7273 · Cell 818.644.5357
aleksandra@eternallifehospice.com

JULY 16, 2026

Jeanette Abundis

Sr. Director, Emergency & Critical Care
jeanette.abundis@pihhealth.org

Dear Jeanette,

My name is Aleksandra Dubina, founder and CEO of Eternal Life Hospice — a Medicare-certified, ACHC-accredited hospice serving Ventura and Los Angeles County. With nearly two decades in healthcare and over eleven years in hospice, our team has been intentional about every relationship we pursue, and I wanted to reach out to you personally.

A few days ago we sent out the first issue of The Eternal Care Brief — a publication our team created to put honest, clinical information directly into the hands of professionals like you. I hope it found its way to you.

We reached out to PIH Health specifically because reputation and standards matter to us. The hospice industry in California has faced a real credibility crisis — fraud investigations and Medicare suspensions have shaken families' trust across the board. Our team made a deliberate decision to take action: to provide credible, clear information to providers who support families, and to educate families so they know they have a choice to examine the industry for themselves when facing one of the most difficult decisions a person can face.

Your work in emergency and critical care resonates with our own practice — the moments when a hospice decision arrives suddenly in the ED are among the most compressed and difficult a family can face, and the agencies your teams can call on with confidence make a real difference — and we'd like to extend a personal invitation to be a voice in The Eternal Care Brief. We envision credible voices from the field, leaders willing to share a perspective or a challenge worth talking about. If that ever appeals to you, we'd be honored.

Please feel free to reach out to me directly. And lastly, thank you for your leadership in emergency and critical care — the standard you hold when everything moves fast and the stakes are highest is a contribution that deserves to be acknowledged.

I welcome your call or text, and I look forward to the possibility of meeting or simply having a conversation to see how Eternal can support your efforts at PIH.

Warm regards,

Aleksandra Dubina

Founder & Chief Executive Officer
Certified Hospice Administrator
Office 805.953.7273 · Cell 818.644.5357
aleksandra@eternallifehospice.com

JULY 16, 2026

Stephanie Jones

Director, Surgical Services
stephanie.jones@drmc.org

Dear Stephanie,

My name is Aleksandra Dubina, founder and CEO of Eternal Life Hospice — a Medicare-certified, ACHC-accredited hospice serving Ventura and Los Angeles County. With nearly two decades in healthcare and over eleven years in hospice, our team has been intentional about every relationship we pursue, and I wanted to reach out to you personally.

A few days ago we sent out the first issue of The Eternal Care Brief — a publication our team created to put honest, clinical information directly into the hands of professionals like you. I hope it found its way to you.

We reached out to PIH Health specifically because reputation and standards matter to us. The hospice industry in California has faced a real credibility crisis — fraud investigations and Medicare suspensions have shaken families' trust across the board. Our team made a deliberate decision to take action: to provide credible, clear information to providers who support families, and to educate families so they know they have a choice to examine the industry for themselves when facing one of the most difficult decisions a person can face.

Your work in surgical services resonates with our own practice — the patients who move through your teams often face the most significant transitions of their lives, and the care extended in that handoff shapes everything that follows — and we'd like to extend a personal invitation to be a voice in The Eternal Care Brief. We envision credible voices from the field, leaders willing to share a perspective or a challenge worth talking about. If that ever appeals to you, we'd be honored.

Please feel free to reach out to me directly. And lastly, thank you for your work in surgical services — three decades of guiding patients through their most critical moments is a commitment to care that deserves to be acknowledged.

I welcome your call or text, and I look forward to the possibility of meeting or simply having a conversation to see how Eternal can support your efforts at PIH.

Warm regards,

Aleksandra Dubina

Founder & Chief Executive Officer
Certified Hospice Administrator
Office 805.953.7273 · Cell 818.644.5357
aleksandra@eternallifehospice.com