Where We're Headed

We have a great deal to cover over the next three months, and this is the chapter that sets the foundation for everything after. Here is what I'm focused on this week, what I'm proposing we build over the next three months, and the pause we take together to formalize our working arrangement and plan the road ahead.

Everything ladders to The Eternal Standard, and every step points toward your goal of a strong sale or transition — the $11M+ target. My role is to walk alongside you as a strategic growth ally, layered on top of everything you have already built so beautifully. I work mostly behind the curtain — the Oz — stepping forward when it helps: to make introductions, support you in the room, and present from pitch decks kept ready on demand.

What I Need From You

A short list, and it unlocks most of the plan:

- Your relationship map — the companies, individuals, agencies, and professionals you work with or want to: who, what, where.
- Anyone to handle with care — strained or sensitive relationships, so we navigate wisely.
- Your wish list — the relationships you most want opened.
- The meetings already on your calendar three months out — plus any dates you will be out of town or unavailable.
- The clinical and coverage details for the referral card, so I can finalize what goes on it.
- Your email lists and the families you have served — contacted only with remembrance and care, never marketing.
- Your warm-introduction contacts by name — I will write a draft email for you to review.
- Who receives business cards — names, titles, and phone numbers.

- Where eternalhospice.com and eternallifehospiceinc.com are registered — the registrars and logins, so I can set up email and take the off-brand site down.

ESTABLISHING THE BASELINE

The Numbers

To grow something deliberately, we begin by knowing where we stand. These numbers give us a baseline — the starting line we measure every gain against — so we see clearly what is working and where to lean in.

They also seed the business plan — the projections and forecasting that, in time, anchor the sale decks. We start with the end in mind. The numbers are that important.

Share what you are comfortable sharing. We begin with what you can give, and build from there. To protect us both, we will put a mutual confidentiality agreement in place before anything is exchanged — your numbers stay private, and the work we build on them stays protected.

WHAT HELPS MOST

- Average daily census, month by month — the clearest measure of growth.
- Revenue and a basic profit-and-loss, monthly where possible.
- Payer mix — Medicare, Medi-Cal, managed care.
- Average length of stay, with admissions and discharges per month.
- Referral sources — who refers, how often, and how many become admissions.
- Medicare cap status.
- Operating cost per patient day.

This Week

The first moves are already underway:

- Finalize the marketing kit — final edits, your second approval, and print-ready files — and source the right printer for a custom piece, comparing three on quality, speed, and cost, and proofing before the full run. We lock the business line first, so every printed piece carries it. You are welcome to come with me if you are available.
- Begin gathering the baseline numbers, so we forecast for real and set goals we can stand behind.
- Begin the master contact list, and set up simple tracking so every referral conversation has a clear next step.

The Three-Month Build

Objective. Establish a polished, consistent brand presence, reopen warm referral relationships, and build the engine that grows census. Far more than a folder and a website — here is the whole of it, by month and by track.

CHANNELS WE STAND UP — EACH ITS OWN BUILD

- Website (eternalhospice.com) — soft launch, brand-consistent (separate breakdown to follow).
- CRM and central tracking — referral pipeline, calendar, meetings, and speaking, all fully coordinated.
- Email campaigns — referral sources first, with a lighter opt-in community track.

- Social — LinkedIn (lead), Facebook, Instagram.
- Google presence — Business Profile, reviews, maps.

Month One • Foundation & Launch

BRANDING

- Marketing kit finalized and printed — the custom folder and cards.
- Business cards designed and printed — for the right people, with names, titles, and the tracked business line.
- Founder narrative written: clear, repeatable, with versions tailored to each audience — the case-manager version leads with same-day admission and coverage; the oncology version with symptom and respiratory management; the integrative version with whole-person therapies; the hospital-discharge version with reliability and responsiveness.
- Brand applied consistently across every surface.

MARKETING

- Website soft launch, brand-consistent (its own project).
- CRM and central tracking stood up — referral pipeline, calendar, meetings, and speaking, fully coordinated.
- Dedicated business line set up, with your approval (toll-free 800/877 via Grasshopper) — forwards to the right people, tracks every call, and begins separating your personal phone from the business: peace of mind.
- Master contact list — I build this from every contact you provide.
- Eternal email accounts set up on the domain — role-based addresses (support@, referral@, media@), with a proposed naming list for your approval.
- Email marketing campaign mapped three months out — referral sources first, each touch laddering to the five pillars of The Eternal Standard.
- Google Business Profile claimed and optimized; social profiles created and branded (LinkedIn lead, FB, IG).

PUBLIC RELATIONS

- LinkedIn essay drafted and published — the opener, no news peg required.
- Press strategy sequenced: regional business press near-term, physician trade at 60–90 days.
- Tier-1 press targets — Henry Dubroff / Pacific Coast Business Times (lead: the regional business and leadership story) and The Acorn / Nick Oliveri (local community visibility).

NETWORKING & MEETINGS

- UCLA meeting; Ventura County clinics; and any meetings already on your books.
- Physician credibility and introductions — Amanda / VCMA (Ventura County Medical Association): a referral-network path, not press.
- Shortlist associations to join — VCMA, CHAPCA, CAHSAH, Aging Life Care, local chambers.

PRESENTATION DECKS

- Begin building pitch decks at month's end — at least three, customizable by audience for presentation and B2B awareness, ready on demand, each with a sign-in mechanism to capture every attendee.

Month Two • Build & Activate

BRANDING

- Referral card and audience-specific one-pagers finalized from Month-One learnings.
- Website content deepened — services, integrative modalities, outcomes language.

MARKETING

- Email marketing campaign live — pillar-laddered touches to referral sources (I draft); social cadence live.
- CRM populated, every conversation with a next step; outcomes-language assets; Google reviews and SEO basics.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

- Press release prepared (pending rebrand launch and your sign-off); companion op-ed drafted.
- Tier-1 publications approached — Pacific Coast Business Times, Acorn, Ventura County Star.

SPEAKING & NETWORKING

- First lunch-and-learns at physician offices, SNF, ALF; join one or two associations.

Month Three • Authority

BRANDING

- Brand audit across all live surfaces — one voice everywhere.

MARKETING

- Email nurture rhythm established; the next quarter's pillar touches mapped.
- Website refined from soft launch toward full; CRM reporting on what converts.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

- Press release deployed (if launch and sign-off are ready).
- Tier-2 physician trade approached — Southern California Physician Magazine; Hospice News on the radar; op-ed placed.

SPEAKING & NETWORKING

- Regular networking rhythm; speaking slots booked; association involvement deepened.

At Month Three — We Pause

At the three-month mark we pause together, by design:

- Read the real numbers — census, pipeline, and referral traction.
- Formalize our working agreement — the structure we have been shaping, a retainer paired with equity, settled together now that we can see what is working.
- Plan the road forward — the six, nine, twelve, eighteen, and twenty-four month horizons, with the twenty-four month mark lining up with your timeline.

The pause is the point: the foundation informs the agreement, and the agreement and the plan rest on something true.

Container Chiq — An Open Door

I am also open to exploring a partnership around Container Chiq with you. For now, we table it — one thing at a time, foundation first — and revisit at our three-month checkpoint. It stays its own conversation, on its own track.

Building It Together

This is the foundation. We have a lot to cover, and I am honored to build it with you — deliberately, by the numbers, and laddered to The Eternal Standard at every step.

With love and care,
~ Conduit International
