

Eternal Life Hospice — 30-Journal Revised Editorial Architecture

Status: Analysis-only, pre-publication planning pass

Source report: `exports/seo/search-console-seo-validation-2026-09-20.md`

Source records: `website/content/30-day-journal/batch-1.json` through `batch-5.json`

Scope: Revise editorial ownership before publication. No article bodies, core pages, files, metadata, canonicals, schema, or indexing directives were changed.

Architecture rules

- Core pages own acquisition intent.* Existing service, resource, county, and city pages own “hospice care,” Medicare-benefit, referral, and “hospice in [city]” searches. Journal articles explain a question, decision, care stage, or family situation and link to the owner.
- One article, one primary job.* Each article has one dominant search intent; secondary questions must support that job rather than create a second landing page.
- Local articles are supporting resources.* Articles may use a location in the title when the location changes the practical guidance, but they must not present themselves as alternate city landing pages. They should link to one matching city/region owner.
- Evaluation/referral separation:* #1 owns the family-facing evaluation process. #12 is merged into #1 as a family-request section. #30 remains a professional/facility referral workflow and links to `/refer`; it must not repeat the family evaluation guide.
- Post-enrollment separation:* #11 owns the first 48 hours; #19 owns medication management; #20 owns equipment planning; #21 owns after-hours/on-call use. None should re-explain eligibility or general hospice benefits.
- Condition guides stay condition-specific.* #7–10 should answer disease-specific family questions and route to evaluation; they should not become generic “signs it is time” pages.
- Evidence boundary:* Search Console confirms cluster/page performance, not query-to-URL attribution. Proposed owners below are editorial mappings based on semantic fit and existing page subject matter.
- Healthcare safety:* Do not add coverage promises, outcome claims, “best hospice” claims, response guarantees, or deterministic eligibility language. Medicare/CMS references require factual review before publication.

Revised article architecture
